THE NETWORK

- The European Talent Support Network is a continuously transforming and developing system, with the European Talent Centres acting as hubs and the European Talent Points being nodes acting as equal members.
- Talent Centres do professional work in the field of high ability within a region or in a whole country.
- Talent Points organise local activities in the field of high ability.
- The ETSN website displays the map of the institutions making up the Network, with the key data of the participating Talent Centres and Talent Points under http://etsn.eu/map-of-etsn/.
- The Network will bring a new dimension to the pan-European (and beyond) cooperation in supporting talented young students. It aims to expand the exchange and adaptation of best practices, distribution and application of scientific results, possibilities of mutual visits of young talents, as well as their teachers, mentors, parents and all the experts devoting their life to talent support.

YOUTH PLATFORM OF THE ETSN

- The Network established a Youth Platform to promote the participation of highly abled young people in sustained international cooperation, as well as to foster development and social responsibility.

Enrichment, collaboration, cooperation

HISTORICAL BACKGROUND

- The idea of the European Talent Support Network (ETSN) emerged and was articulated in 2011.
- After 3 years of preparation the European Talent Support Network with the first 14 European Talent Centres was officially founded on 29 September 2015, in the Brussels European Parliament building.
- In 2019 the ETSN is now comprised of 25 Talent Centres, in European and in non-European countries, and thanks to their mutual work, close to 400 Talent Points joined to it. They can be found at the ETSN Talent Map: http://etsn.eu/map-of-etsn/.
- The decision to allow non-European organizations to join as Associated Talent Centres or Associated Talent Points increased the cultural multiplicity of the European Talent Support Network, increased the scope of its cooperation and enriched the European participants with a number of new approaches and practices.
